To the Reader.

[Was purposed (curteous Reader) in regard of my sicknes, and the base estimation of the subiect, to haue written no more in this kind; yet thinking it fit to take my farewell of my honest friends, I am willing (Tribulus cū factus sim) to keepe ranke with the rest once more; and the rather to quit my selfe and the Art of an imputation of meere vanity & imposture laid vpon vs by some scrupulous and crack-brain'd sciolists, some of our owne crue also, who write Christian Almanackes forsooth, that haue small matter & lesse worth in thē. One of these worthy writers among other his foolish paradoxes) will proue at Nihilmas.

1. That no stars haue power on the creatures of the earth.
2. That the Sun or Moone haue no gouernement or efficacy on inferior bodies
3. That the Moon hath not light of the Sun, but of her selfe, and that her center neuer in respect of the earth is darkned.
4. That the Moone is no cause of the motion of the Sea and Tides.
5. That eclipses and Comets portend nothing to Man or country.
6. That there are no more Spheares but one.
7. That the earth is not round.
8. That there be no Antipodes or counter-pacers to vs.
9. That the Sunne is not so great as the earth.
10. That predictions are altogether vnlawful and vtterly forbidden by Sacred writ.

These & such like foolish fantasies, & ridiculous forgeries (not worth the naming) are exposed by them, & entertaind as gospel by such as themselues. For what scholler is there in the world so idle brain'd, that wil constantly auerre any of these things, or wil go about to make men beleue, that because God himselfe is not tied to any naturall or secondary meanes, therefore man is not restrained or gouerned by any such, but hath liberty and power when he please, to do this or that without let or controulement. Well, let these Fantasmongers (for want of wit) say what they wil, my experience hath taught me better doctrine. Let them raile against diuine prouidence; let thē make the world beleue the Moon is made of greene cheese: and that neither she, the Sun, nor any other planet or fixed star whatloeuere, hath any power or energie in or vpon this inferior Orbe And let them denie all prediction, & acount as vilely of Prognosticators as of Pagans, it shal not offend or grieue me at all, seeing nemo leditur nisi à seipso: & these

To the Reader.

fellowes wrong not the Art but themselues through their own ignorance: for if they did know how they abuse God & Nature, in denying the power of his celestial creatures, knowing questionles the wonderful power of some animal vegetable or mineral (as of the Leadstone or such like) they would surely bee a litle more mild and charitable in their writings; & where these smattering Theologists produce diuers passages of holy writ to serue their turn as they think, I only with the indifferent reader to compare them with those I proferd in my last yeeres Almanack: and for further satisfaction read but ouer sir Christo. Heydons book against Chambers, or Bartholinus, and I am verily perswaded he wil be on my side. Let him consider withall, what an excellent creature man was before his fall, so that howsoere he may iustly complain and say. O miserū humanū genus quia illam diuinā lucē amisit, yet esteeme a litle better of mē as they now are, then of beasts, plants, and stones, which through a naturall instinct haue not only singular præscience of future things, but some admirable vertue besides: so that with Aristotle, wee may wel conclude that παι το ζῷον ἡ δαμασον, & therefore must needs acknowledge that Homo quanto plus cognoscit & intelligit tanto deo similio: and that quanto plus intelligit bonū, et bonum profert actu, tanto christo et deo: O felix qui potuit rerum cognoscere causas, &c. For mine own part, my conscience is so tender (I thanke God) that if I knew not the verity and excellency of Astrology in Physick, and other naturall things, & if the knowledg thereof did not draw me to a deeper consideration, and admiration of Gods power, & vnto a greater zeale, loue, and reuerence to his diuine maieſty, then any other humane Art in the world, I would vtterly abandon and forswear the practise thereof for euer. But I know I do but laterem lauare, for there are and euer will be some hereticks and miscreants in all professions, whom I leaue to barke at the Moone, while she whirles about the Ocean (as one infers,) and the writing of Almanackes to such or better tempered Artists, and betake my self wholly to the trade of Hippocrates and Galen, wherein I will euer implore the ayde and assistance of Almighty God, and so rest

Studious of thy health, Tho. Bretnor

Dame Venus now with witty Hermes linkt, ore-shrouded is with Phœbus glistering beames:
 And moody Mars with Titan's closely clinkt,
 from whose malicious pate no vertue streames,

 This moneth hath many weathers, and these dayes require such spirits as brooke no delayes.

To purge, to bathe, or bleede is not debar'd,
so that the golden Meane be well obseru'd:
Its also good to hunt, to ride, and run,
so that extremes heerein thou euer shun.

Malicious Saturne playes his wonted pranks,
 with Mars, with Venus, Mercury, and Sol:
 If May proue ill, wee'l con-him little thanke, fith his coniunction bodes no danger small to earths increase, to Cattle, fruite, and all.
 Hee's Nature's foe, and he is no mans frend,
 That all would haue, and nothing freely spend.

June hath xxx. dayes.

Now hunt the Hare, the fearfull Bucke pursue,
bid idlenesse and Venus sports adieu:
The carefull husband that intends to thrive,
will like the Bee bring hony to his hive.

Now Mars and Saturne in our Citie-signe portend no pleasure to its present state,
No maruell though some grieue, lament, and pine,
to see prouision at so high a rate,
that many men are forst to shut vp gate :
Yet sonie are worldly wise, and he is no knaue,
That cannot sweare, dissemble, foist and braue.

July hath xxxj. daies.

Strike not a Veyne, nor do no Physicke take,
vnlesse thou wilt a breach in Nature make :
Nor meddle not with wine nor wanton Toyes,
lest thou depriue thy selfe of hoped ioyes.

The Sun ecclipsed at his going downe,
 and Saturne with Aldebaran mounted hie :
 Give silly worldlings cause enough to frowne,
 at some distastes which to them offered be :
 By so I will, so't must, and so't shall be :
 Yet patience is a vertue in his place,
 Which some perforce; some mildly must embrace.

Now Ioue to Sol and Hermes is oppold,
 and Saturne in a square of either two,
 May giue vs notice of some ill propold
 gainst schollers by some vile ambitious crew,
 that thinke all's vaine and naught, they cannot doe:
 Some feare no diuell, nor doe care a straw,
 For conscience, mercy, equiry, or Law.

Now is the time to gather in the fruite
 of many things that grow vpon the earth:
 Husband them well, please God, and be not mute,
 least he afflict vs with a sodaine dearth:
 and turne to Elegies our wonted mirth.
 For man is like vnto a Tennis ball,
 Now tost aloft, now dath'd against the wall.

The Suune oppold to Natures enemy,
 and wily Hermes in alike Aspect.
 Pester the Aire with much frigidiry, with raine and snow, or some such like affect,
 which must of force our bodies much deiect:
 But were these all that we are like to tast,
 Twere but the mischeefe of a Winters last.

Certaine Physicall obseruations.

It is not amiss sometimes (me thinks) Cuckow-like to sing the same song in our writings, seeing that as a good tale can neuer be too often told, so must it be confessed with the Poet that nullum est iam dictum quod non dictum sit prius, and that often when wee bring to mind the matter, we marre all. First therefore in regard that vrina est meretrix, altering its colour and consistence vpon the least occasion offered, and that the rude multitude will not beleue that the best Physitian in the world can cure them vnesse he can tell them (by their water forsooth) of every idle pinch and crissing griffe about them, so that the honest Physitian is driuen now and then for his owne credit to vse some of Gordonius his wistly sleights: whereas indeed every patient that is wise should with learned Seneca acknowledge his owne infirmity and say, quare non verum vt medico faceor: but because neither the patients owne relation nor the physitian his best knowledge by vrine, can alwaies hit the nasse on the head, either in the discovery or cure of some hereditary and other diseases reigning now adales, nam tempora mutantur & nos mutamur in illis, therefore it is very requisite that the Physitian whose counsell and advice is required should be furnished with better knowledge and vnderstanding of the disease, then by any excrement can be discerned which cannot be attained vnto but by Astrologicall meanes, quandoquidem medicus coelestia deferens adminicula, in exhibendis componendisq; medicinis, infirmi & valetudinatii vitam negligere manifeste probatur: nam nisi cognouerit quanta sit in corporum coelestium obseruatione vtilitas & difficultas venenum erit sapenumberd quod in remedium ab ipso propinabitur, quoniam Astrologia medicinam concomitans in curis veris morborum multum iuvat medicantes. For we obserue that Saturne and Mars (accounted natures enemies) are seldom ominous to brats of their owne stampe, though the one thorow despairs, the other thorow despight; sometimes become massakers of their owne selues, whereas Iupiter his lust, and Venus her loosenesse, the Moone her lunacie, and Mercury his lewdnesse are often causers of their owne decay.

If therefore thou wouldest helpe, strengthen or comfort the vitall vertue or lively power whose seate is in the heart, thou must vse things temperately hot and dry, or hote and moist and at such time as the Sun is strong and conspated with the friendly beames of Iupiter and Luna,

A Prognostication

The naturall vertue governed by Iupiter, Venus and Luna and seated in the liver, wherein are ingendred the foure humors, is fortified especially by π if we vse hot and moist things at such times as he is well disposed in the horoscope or configured with Venus and the Moone fortunate.

The animall vertue distinguished into the intellectuall part which Mercury governess, and the sensitive which the Moone with Iupiter and Venus doe rule is best comforted vnder those planets well disposed, and with medicines temperate and agreeable to their natures.

The vertue attractiue (one of the foure lesse principall and subserving togeth in heat and drynesse, and is fortified by things of hote nature, the Moone passing vnder γ Aries and Sagittary and well aspected of Sol or Mars fortunate or the \downarrow in any other signe so aspected and γ or π ascending.

The vertue retentive delighteth in cold and dry things by the influence of Saturne and is best comforted, the \downarrow seated vnder ν or μ and applying with a friendly aspect vnto Saturne, or the \downarrow in another signe so aspected and either ν or μ ascending.

The vertue digestiue is furthered by heat and moisture, and the influence of Iupiter and is best holpen when the \downarrow is vnder π or ρ and aspected of that friendly Planet, or if she be in some other signe then it is conuenient that either π or ρ be rising.

The vertue expulsiue delighteth in coldnesse and moisture, and that by the influence of the \downarrow well affected and placed in s or κ while one of these signes are ascending.

Directions for Phlebotomy.

Amongst all other physcail intentions Phlebotomy is most warily to be attempted for that as a quolibet ligno non fit Mercurius, so good blood is not ingendred of ill viands, nor easily restored in decaying bodies: And in this our southerly clime we see that most of vs are pestered with flegme and cachecticall humors (by reason of our surfeiting and ill diet) then with superfluity of sanguifying chyle or good blood: the safest course therefore (me thinke) to cure such bodies is by good diet, and such dietetory, diureticke or diaphoreticall meanes as the expert and learned physition (and not the bragging impostor) shall thinke fit, rather then by any hasty-leech like effusion of blood: yet for pletoricke bodies and in diseases of a pleuriticall and sometimes of a melancholly nature, there is no safer nor speedier way of cure then by phlebotomy, so that blood be taken with good discretion and conuenient quantity.

From the	{	Sanguine, Phlegmaticke, Chollericke, Melancholick,	}	the \downarrow passing vnder	{	ν or ρ or μ . γ or π or π . s or κ or κ . π or ρ or μ .

And vpon such dales as I haue noted in this Prognostication for good and fortunate, and signed in the fift columnne of the Almanacke with Δ and \star aspects: for although there bee some physicians and Chyrurgions (I know) that care not what my selfe or any man shall be in this kind. but with the Asser of Derby the Werelod Gentleman may in some cases and vpon some persons not fatally afflicted sometimes aduenture to doe, yet may the heauens be so disposed, either by the present configuration or their private affect from the patients geniture, that were it not for Gods merite and his saving deere as that of Ionas in the fish-bales belly, no such thing could be a-uailable, but rather hurtfull. & wonderfull prejudiciall to his future health, for I dare boldly affirme that if any man shall sicke, or any physician giue physick, or is but sent for to a patient at the point of the full change or quarter (either luminary afflicted) at the Moone her conjunction, opposition or square with Saturne or Mars, or at the ascension culminating discention or point of Nadir of either of them, or any other violent star, or when the Minutes of the ascendent is in shew and in such case there is small comfort to be giuen to the patient little hope in the medicine, and lesse credit to the physician, & hinc illa lachryma, this is the cause why the physician and Apothecary are oft blamed, when indeed it is nothing but the indisposition of the time, as the learned and well experienced physicians, D. Foster and Doct^r Turner, to my knowledge did primarily and worthily obserue in their best consultations and cures, the which thing is in no wise neglected by my especiall good friend Master Carter of Siningburne D. Flood, nor of many other indicall physicians at this day: but let each man doe as his Genius both best dispose him, for mine owne part I will follow mine, and here let downe once againe the effects of our physic botomy according to honest Ruland.

The sad in mind it merrv makes, and anger doth appease,
From madnesse, fond-licke lowers salues and clarifies the eyes,
The humid braine and mentall powers thereby are purifide, thorow too much plenitude and superfluity of bad humours, attracted by strict and intemperate feeding, then by inauity or want of due certain it is, that plures nec at gula quam enis, it is therefore the part of every good physician not only to know the true crasis and temper of his patients body, and the quantity and quality of the humors offending, but also a fit season to exhibit and giue his proposed medicine:

for I make no question but every discrete physician obserueth an incredible difference in the operation of a like medicine vpon sundry persons, or of the same medicine vpon the same patient, giuen at different times which can be nothing else but either the indisposition of the subject, or contrariety of constellation, as it is said: in breue

Of Eclipses this yeere. 1618.

Although we in England shall see no eclipse at all this yeere, yet will our neighbouring dwellers and many inhabitants behold the Luminaries thrice eclipsed, the first whereof will happen upon the earthes Sunn thuse you whether the 6. of January, 6. minutes past one in the afternoon, at which instant our Antipodians about the promontory of good hope or Cape bone Spei and straight of Madagascar shall see the Sunn almost totally darkned, which is not only like to minister present terror, but matter of insuring griefe to those Indian dwellers.

The second eclipse will be of the I the 30. of January, 25. minutes past 2. in the afternoon, at which time the Easterlings about Noua guinea, Cathay and Iapon shall see a quarter of the I eclipsed, which being small and of no consequence to vs, I spare to speake any more thereof.

The third and last will happen upon the Easterne part of the earth, the 11. of July 36. minutes past 7. in the evening, which will be about their noon: tide at which instant the inhabitants about Guiana Florida, Virginia, New-found-land, &c. shall see the whole body of the Sun quite covered or intercepted from them by the dark and massie body of the J, which totall eclipse happening vnder the last face of Cancer) both pretend some notable sedition, plague, or sicknesse to the Africans, Hygyians, and some other neere neighbouring countries.

Of the fowre quarters of the yeere, and first of Winter.

Winter which by good reason and indeed, both alwayes commences with Nouember, did take his beginning (according to bulgar Astrologie) the 11. of December last, at one a clocke, and 47. minutes in the afternoon, for at that time was it is part of our Hemisphere farthest deflected from the eye or heart of the world, or the Sun (after old dotage) then entring the first minute of the tropicall Signe Capricorne, gaue least portion of Sun-shine to vs, and consequently caused shortest dayes and longest nights to all Northerne inhabitants.

The disposition of the wether this quarter may appeare in its place, and for sicknesse such as are of a cold and moist nature, and some epumecall and strong will range abroad.

Of the Spring.

The Spring (which sensibly and truly begins in February,) according to Astronomers, makes its entrance this yeere the 10. of March at 1. a clocke, and 10. minutes in the afternoon, the 10. of A ascending. At which instant the earth hauing volued her selfe, to a right angle with the Sun, and recovered like portion of shadow and Sun-shine, entreteth the first minute of the religious signe Libra, or the Sun according to appearance, then stepping vnder the first scruple of Aries, maketh dayes and nights equal to all nations.

The wether this quarter is like to prove indifferent, if the latter end be not too nippling, and for diseases, expect not a few, and those both violent and contagious.

Now Mars and Sol conioynd in Aries face,
Bode good to some, but many will disgrace.

Of Summer.

Summer which naturally communceth in May, taketh its beginning this yeere at such time as the earth entring the first minute of J hath approached its furthest Southern Limit and comming neere the Sups viual presence, obtaieth greatest portion of his bright beames, and beautifull illumination; or (if you please) when the Sun climbing vnder the first scruple of Cancer and finishing his largest Northerne progresse maketh longest dayes and shortest nights to all

article dwellers, which either way taken falleth out this year: the 12 of June 24 minutes past 6. in the evening.

The weather this quarter will prove indifferent, and seasonable, if August bluster not; but the diseases will be contagious and deplorable.

Of Harvest.

Autumne (which in common sense begins in August) is usually said to enter at such time as the regall Planet Sol returning backward retoucheth the equator in the first minute of Libra: or rather when the earth entering the first scruple of Aries and beholding the Sun face to face, recovereth a like quantity of light and darknesse, which howsoever taken cometh to passe, the 13. of September at 7. minutes before 10. in the fore noon.

As in this season variety of weather and some boisterous blasts are presignified, so will mens bodies be pestered with many melancholly and flatulent diseases, dangerous fevers, Cramps, Stitches, Convulsions, Dysenteries, &c.

THE friendly Philomathist may take notice of an excellent Booke penned and published by M. Aaron Rathburne, called The Surveyor, wherein is not onely handled the practicke and legall parts of Surueigh, but the chiefeſt Theormes & principall grounds of Geometry in generall.

There is alſo an excellent Inſtrument called, The Arithmetickall Jewell, with a Booke of it's ſingular uſe, inuented and published by M. William Prat, and made in Iuory and mettall by Robert Limborow Gold-smith in Gutter-lane. As alſo the Logarithmes in Engliſh, and an excellent Treatiſe of Rabdologia, or Arithmetickall Rods, inuented and published by the learned Lord of Merchifton, which Inſtruments or Rods (commonly called Napiers Bones) are made by Nathaniell Goſſe in Hoſier-lane.

Moreouer an Appendix, or an Addition written by M. D. Ridley vnto his Magneticall Treatiſe in answer to M. Barlow. And alſo a neceſſary and uſe-ful Pamphlet, concerning the preparation and ſafe uſe of Opium, and it's admirable vertue in that excellent medicine called Laudanum, written in French by Angelus Sala, and Tranſlated into Engliſh lish with necessary Additions by Thomas Bretnor.

As also a small Treatise called the Art of Pronuntiation, wherein by certaine Characters is taught the exact touch of Pronuntiation of any language
inuented and published by Robert Robinson.

Bulls head over against Saint Clements Church in the Strand, the which I thought good to let the ingenious Practitioner know, in regard there be som teachers about this towne, which for their owne priuate gaine will fobbe them off with trash in stead of good ware, and so in stead of good dealing they are abused and speed ill.
